What was the biggest strength of this workshop?

Peper's (Dh's) incredible wealth of knowledge and the skill with which he framed big ideas & concepts in accessible terms. I particularly appreciated his comments and tips on how to reconceptualize and refine a project.

What was the biggest weakness?

I thought that the workshop was great, but I would have appreciated an opportunity to practice "pitching" our ideas & getting feedback on them.

Based on what you heard today, are you more or less likely to want to pursue a commercial book deal? Why or why not?

More likely, because I got some concrete ~~ideas~~ ideas about how to do it.

Overall, are you glad you came and would you recommend this workshop to a colleague who's interested in commercial publishing?

Yes, absolutely! Highly recommend!

What was the biggest strength of this workshop?

Hard to say! Very helpful both to have an inside look and warm invitation to just try. And I appreciated the small reminder that, even in this anti-intellectual moment, (academic) expertise is still valued.

What was the biggest weakness?

None!

Based on what you heard today, are you more or less likely to want to pursue a commercial book deal? Why or why not?

More.

What was the biggest strength of this workshop?

Brings a very fresh perspective, about the stark differences in goals & what's valued by trade publishers. I'm completely new to this world and find a lot of the info new & helpful!

What was the biggest weakness?

The workshop already tells us a lot about steps to take & what to expect to get to a book proposal. I'd be also interested in (1) telling what makes a good fit for trade vs. academic book? and (2) how much time one gets to work on the full

Less.

~~I'm in~~

I'm in early career and haven't published books yet. After today's workshop I'd like to start w/ academic publishing first.

What was the biggest strength of this workshop?

- direct & applicable advice
- personable

What was the biggest weakness?

- some slides on agent relationships, ideas to look out for, etc
- analogy about "real estate agent" doesn't seem to hold in case the working relationship is actually lifelong
- any pros/cons or FYIs, even if brief, can be helpful to see on screen so that talking points are visually anchored

Based on what you heard today, are you more or less likely to want to pursue a commercial book deal? Why or why not?

- more likely → it makes sense now / process demystified

Overall, are you glad you came and would you recommend this workshop to a colleague who's interested in commercial publishing?

- definitely glad I showed up despite the snow!
- will likely recommend the site/services to an ex-academic friend who still has unpublished research

What was the biggest strength of this workshop?

I loved the energy and honesty -
one often talks about "demythification"
but this was really dismystifying

What was the biggest weakness?

nothing you can control: questions from participants that are too individualistic or open-ended

Based on what you heard today, are you more or less likely to want to pursue a commercial book deal? Why or why not?

Much more likely - I've been kicking these ideas around for a long time, and have tried to frame it as a crossover or academic project, but now I know this is a trade book.

What was the biggest strength of this workshop?

Wealth of knowledge and willingness to play around with every question / idea we threw

What was the biggest weakness?

Long winded answers - more ground could be covered or concrete examples shown / discussed

Based on what you heard today, are you more or less likely to want to pursue a commercial book deal? Why or why not?

I am more interested, but less sure if my ideas are sound.

What was the biggest strength of this workshop?

Honestly, the biggest strength is that it's motivating, ensured me that this is ~~absolutely~~ absolutely something I ~~could~~ could do + gave practical de-mystifying steps on getting there.

What was the biggest weakness?

The second half started slow and meandered a bit - which was tough after lunch.

Based on what you heard today, are you more or less likely to want to pursue a commercial book deal? Why or why not?

Absolutely. Because I believe I have a good idea, and now I have a clear sense of the steps required.
