USER AGREEMENT & THE BUILDER'S PLEDGE

Plain-English first, legal second. Both count.

1. What you're buying

This agreement is between you and Cinegraph Media LLC ("Cinegraph Media," "we"), a Colorado limited liability company. Story First // Studio OS is a digital education product: a book, a workbook, a video course (story first // studio os academy; each film is added beat by beat as it is released), a toolkit of AI prompts, a reference library, a complete beat-by-beat walkthrough, and a one-page start guide, delivered through our course portal at storyfirst.cinegraph.media (operated on the GoHighLevel platform). You are buying education and strategy assets — not done-for-you services, not managed marketing, and not guaranteed outcomes.

2. Access and refunds

Your purchase grants a single-user license. Access to everything that exists at purchase is granted immediately — the book, workbook, toolkit, canon, walkthrough and library, the moment your course-portal login is delivered. The video lessons are not available at purchase. They are part of what you bought and are added beat by beat as each is released.

Refunds, plainly. This book asks you to shrink your customer's risk before you ask for their money, so we hold ourselves to the same standard — with one condition attached, and we'd rather state it plainly than dress it up.

The 15-day refund. The system is the workbook entries and the Signal Map they build. Running them is the only way either of us can know whether it works for your business. So: within 15 days of purchase, fill the nine Act I entries (W-1.1, W-1.2, W-1.3, W-1.4, W-1.4b, W-1.5, W-1.6, W-1.7 and W-1.8 — the optional Fear Audit, W-1.4c, stays optional) and build your Signal Map from them, then send them to storyfirst@cinegraph.media. We confirm that the pages and the Map are yours and were made inside those 15 days. If they are, we return your money in full.

What to send, and how we check it. Photographs of your handwritten pages — actual ink on any paper, not a typed document — plus the Signal Map you built from them. We read them ourselves. We won't run detection software on you or debate authorship; the entries simply ask for things only you can know: the exact moment you decided to start, the customer you had in mind, the sentence nobody else would write that way. We are checking one thing: that all nine entries and the Map exist, are complete, and are yours. If something is missing we'll tell you what, in writing, and you can send it inside the 15 days. (If handwriting isn't workable for you — a disability, an injury, anything — write us and we'll find another way. The condition is that you did the thinking, not that you own a pen.)

If the videos are late. If the video lessons are not all released by January 31, 2027, you can ask for a full refund of your purchase until February 15, 2027 by writing to storyfirst@cinegraph.media.

Everything that exists at purchase is digital and immediately consumable, so sales are otherwise final once access is delivered, apart from the two refunds above. If your login never arrives or the portal is broken, that's different: write us and we'll fix it or make it right.

3. Third-party tools

The system teaches you to work with AI tools (chat assistants, AI-assisted editors) using your own accounts with those providers. We are deliberately platform-neutral: we don't require, resell, or control any third-party tool, and we're not responsible for their pricing, availability, output quality, or terms. Their terms of service are between you and them.

4. Affiliate disclosure

The course resource pages may recommend specific apps and services, and some of those links may be affiliate links — meaning Cinegraph Media may earn a commission at no additional cost to you. We only list tools we'd tell you to use anyway; the book itself names categories, not brands, on purpose.

5. Results and income

Every business, market, and effort level is different. Examples in the product — including The Complete Walkthrough, an illustrative demonstration, clearly labeled as such — are illustrations of the method, not promises of results. Any revenue figures mentioned anywhere in our materials are aspirational illustrations, not projections, guarantees, or typical results. Nothing here is financial, legal, or professional advice.

6. Your work and ours

Yours: everything you create with the system — your Signal Map, your entries, your videos, your content — is 100% yours. We claim nothing.

Ours: the Story First // Studio OS™ name, the book, the Toolkit prompts, the Canon, the frameworks' expression, and the character Slater are proprietary intellectual property of Cinegraph Media. Your license is for your own business use — not for resale, redistribution, teaching the system commercially, or loading the library wholesale into products you sell. Sharing your own map and any checklist with the people who work for you — an editor, a freelancer, your team — is fine.

Theirs: the product credits and adapts published ideas from named authors (see the book's Sources page). Those frameworks remain their authors' property; no affiliation with or endorsement by any of them is claimed or implied.

7. Conduct

Use the system to amplify a real business honestly. Don't use our materials to produce deceptive, unlawful, or impersonating content. We can terminate portal access (without refund) for abuse of these terms — piracy, redistribution, or fraudulent chargebacks.

8. The boring-but-binding part

This agreement is governed by the laws of Colorado, USA. Disputes go first to good-faith conversation (storyfirst@cinegraph.media), then either of us may take the claim to small claims court in El Paso County, Colorado, if it fits within that court's limit. Otherwise, claims go to the state courts in El Paso County, Colorado, and we both agree to those courts' jurisdiction. If any clause is held unenforceable, the rest stand. This page plus your order receipt is the entire agreement. Cinegraph Media LLC may update these terms for future purchasers; the version you bought under governs your purchase.

THE BUILDER'S PLEDGE

The Signal Pact from Beat 1, restated as the deal between us:

You bring the story, the honesty, and the reps. We bring the system, the tools, and the crew. Nobody here is buying followers, shortcuts, or someone else's voice. Check the box, sign the pact in the book, and let's build.
