

What Is Your House Asking From You?

This isn't about deciding to sell. It's a quiet way to see clearly what your home is asking of you right now — so any decision that comes later is yours, made with a full picture instead of a nagging feeling.

Mark where each one sits today. There are no wrong answers.

01 TIME

How many hours a month really go into keeping this place up?

- ☐ STILL FITS ☐ IT'S GETTING MIXED ☐ A LOT TO ASK

02 MONEY

Insurance, taxes, lawn, pool, repairs — and the big-ticket items ahead.

- ☐ STILL FITS ☐ IT'S GETTING MIXED ☐ A LOT TO ASK

03 ENERGY

Which jobs feel harder now than they did five years ago?

- ☐ STILL FITS ☐ IT'S GETTING MIXED ☐ A LOT TO ASK

04 HELP

Is the home running partly because others keep stepping in?

- ☐ STILL FITS ☐ IT'S GETTING MIXED ☐ A LOT TO ASK

05 ENJOYMENT

More time caring for the property — or enjoying why you bought it?

You Have More Than Two Options

If the house is becoming a lot to keep up with, selling is only one path — not the whole list.

- | | | |
|----|------------------------|---|
| 01 | Stay | Keep things exactly as they are. |
| 02 | Hire help | Keep the home, hand off the hard parts. |
| 03 | Modify | Adjust the house so it fits you better. |
| 04 | Right-size | A lower-maintenance place, nearby. |
| 05 | Move closer | Nearer to family. |
| 06 | Rent & test | Try another lifestyle first. |
| 07 | Sell | Only if the home truly no longer fits. |

ONE QUESTION WORTH SITTING WITH

Does this home still support the life I want over the next five to ten years?

- YES → staying may be exactly right.
- MOSTLY YES → maybe modify a few things, or hire some help.
- NO → then explore your options — calmly, on your own timeline.

When you want a clearer picture of your specific home — the numbers and the options laid side by side — that's what a Property Decision Review is for.

Answers first. Decisions second.
