

Welcome to House Edge Advantage. You now have access to both private MS Teams groups listed below. This guide explains how each group is structured, what belongs where, and how to use them effectively.

1 House Edge Advantage Private Group

This is the main trading room channel. All trades, exits, and adjustments are posted here first. You will also see commentary, member dialogue, and trade-related discussion. If you have questions about a specific trade or position, this is the place to ask. For anything you prefer to keep private, you are welcome to reach out directly via private chat.

2 House Edge Advantage — Trades Only

This channel contains trade screenshots only. After posting a trade in the Private Group, the same screenshot is posted here. There is no member dialogue in this channel, which makes it easy to scan quickly when you return after time away.

Tip for catching up: If you have been away and want to review recent trades, go to the Trades Only channel first. It is the fastest way to see what was posted without scrolling through conversation. Once you find a trade of interest, note the timestamp and jump to that point in the Private Group to read the discussion around it.

GROUP GUIDELINES

- Trade-related questions belong in the Private Group, not the Trades Only channel.
- If you accidentally post a message in the Trades Only channel, please delete it so the channel stays clean.
- Occasionally John may post in the wrong channel by mistake. Any stray messages will be deleted as quickly as possible.
- You can scroll back through both channels at any time to review past trades and discussion.

If you have any questions about getting started or navigating the groups, do not hesitate to ask.

Good Luck and Great Trading,

John Andres