Protect yourself and your clients, and always refer them to an InterNACHI® inspector!

Referral confidence for real estate professionals working with JVC Home Inspections.

What This Protection Means

A JVC Home Inspections explanation for real estate agents and clients.

The InterNACHI Free Negligent Referral Protection Plan is designed to give licensed real estate agents added peace of mind when referring clients to an InterNACHI inspector. The provided InterNACHI material explains that the program may indemnify a licensed real estate agent for up to $10,000 if a third party successfully sues that agent for negligent referral of an InterNACHI inspector. The material also states that this protection is offered free to agents who register.

In simple terms: When a real estate agent refers a client to JVC Home Inspections, this badge communicates that the inspector is connected to InterNACHI standards and that eligible registered agents may have added referral protection through InterNACHI.

Why this matters

Added referral confidence
Real estate agents can feel more comfortable referring clients to a qualified InterNACHI inspector.

Professional accountability
The protection reinforces that the inspection referral is tied to recognized industry standards.

Client-first process
It helps agents show clients that the inspection recommendation was made with care and diligence.

Stronger trust signal
For JVC, this becomes another credibility badge that supports confidence during the home-buying process.

Important clarification

- This is not a home warranty and does not guarantee the results of the inspection.
- This is not the same as Errors & Omissions insurance for the real estate agent or inspector.
- Eligibility and coverage depend on InterNACHI terms and agent registration requirements.
- Agents should review the official InterNACHI registration details before relying on the protection.

JVC Home Inspections
Our goal is to protect the inspection process, support real estate professionals, and help clients make confident property decisions with clear, detailed reporting.
