To Whom It May Concern:

This letter serves to verify the collaborative partnership between AltaOne Federal Credit Union and the East Kern County Community Foundation (EKCCF) in support of the Boron Anchor for Community Knowledge (BACK) Program and the Boron Community Access Center (BCAC).

Through this partnership, AltaOne is committed to advancing opportunities for economic mobility, financial inclusion, and community development within the Boron community and greater East Kern County. The collaboration is designed to support residents pursuing pathways to homeownership, higher education and workforce development, and the establishment or expansion of small businesses.

As part of this initiative, AltaOne Federal Credit Union will serve as the exclusive financial institution partner for the BACK Program. AltaOne's role includes providing:

- Individual Development Account (IDA) infrastructure for eligible program participants;
- Co-branded financial literacy education and curriculum development;
- Credit coaching and financial counseling services;
- Lending solutions aligned with participant goals, including homeownership and small business financing opportunities for qualified graduates of the BACK Program.

Through the provision of these services, AltaOne seeks to empower individuals and families with the financial knowledge, savings tools, and access to responsible financial products necessary to build long-term financial stability and generational wealth.

AltaOne is proud to partner with EKCCF in this important community initiative and supports the shared vision of creating sustainable economic opportunities for Boron residents through education, asset building, and entrepreneurship.

Should you require any additional information regarding this partnership, please do not hesitate to contact us.

Sincerely,
