Fast Glam — Without the Hair Damage.

A quick weave is one of the most affordable, head-turning styles out there. It's also the fastest way to wreck your hair if it's done wrong — bonded to the wrong thing, left in too long, or ripped out.

The good news: the rules are simple. Protect your hair first, maintain it while it's in, and remove it the right way. Do those three things and a quick weave is a beautiful protective style your hair can thrive under.

Here's how to get the glam and keep your hair.

CHAPTER ONE

Protect Your Hair First

Here's the whole game in one sentence: the bonding glue never, ever touches your natural hair. A quick weave bonds wefts to a protective cap — not to you.

- ✦ Your hair is braided/wrapped down and sealed under a wig cap that acts as the barrier.
- ✦ The wefts bond to that cap. Done this way, it's a true protective style.
- ✦ Glue on natural hair = breakage, matting and bald spots. This is the line you never cross.

"Bond it to the cap, never to your crown. That one rule saves your hair."

✦ EBONY'S TIP

If anyone offers to apply bonding glue straight onto your hair or scalp — walk away. That's not a quick weave, that's a repair appointment waiting to happen.

CHAPTER TWO

Installation Prep

A clean, flat, fully-dry base is what makes a quick weave both safe and flawless. Rush the prep and you'll feel it within days.

- ✦ Start on clean, moisturized, fully dry hair — never bond over damp hair.
- ✦ Braid or wrap your hair down flat and smooth against the scalp.
- ✦ Cover completely with a wig cap — no strands peeking out to catch glue.
- ✦ Protect your edges; leave them out gently rather than gluing them down.

✦ EBONY'S TIP

Double-cap if your hair is thick or the cap feels thin — two layers guarantee the glue never finds your hair. Cheap insurance.

CHAPTER THREE

Maintenance While It's In

A quick weave still needs care — for the style up top and the scalp underneath.

- ✦ Keep your edges and scalp moisturized; oil the perimeter, not the bond.
- ✦ Wrap or bonnet it at night to protect the style and reduce frizz.
- ✦ Keep the bonded area as dry as possible — soaking it weakens the glue and invites odor.
- ✦ Refresh with dry shampoo at the scalp and a light serum on the lengths.

✦ EBONY'S TIP

Itchy scalp? Resist digging under the cap. Soothe the edges with a little oil or a scalp soother instead — picking at it loosens the whole install.

CHAPTER FOUR

Safe Removal

Removal is where hair gets lost — almost always from rushing. Take your time and the whole thing lifts off clean.

- ✦ Saturate the bond with oil or a glue remover and let it sit — let the product do the work.
- ✦ Gently lift the cap away from the wefts; never rip or yank.
- ✦ Once the cap is off, your braids underneath are clean — that's the protective barrier doing its job.
- ✦ Clarify and remove any residue from your edges.

"Patience on removal day is the cheapest hair insurance there is."

✦ EBONY'S TIP

Not comfortable removing it yourself? Come in — a professional removal protects your edges and gives your hair a clean reset.

CHAPTER FIVE

Longevity & Aftercare

A quick weave is a short-term style by design. Knowing when to take it down — and what to do after — is how you keep your hair healthy install after install.

- ✦ Plan for 2–3 weeks max. Longer traps buildup and stresses the base.
- ✦ Take it down early if you notice odor, itching, lifting, or tension.
- ✦ After removal: cleanse, deep condition, and let your hair breathe a few days before the next style.
- ✦ Trim and moisturize before you install again.

✦ EBONY'S TIP

Build in rest between quick weaves — back-to-back installs with no breather is how scalps get stressed. Your hair grows on the off days.
