How support requests work

- Submit as many requests as you like. Your plan sets how many we actively work on at once and how quickly each one is delivered.
- One request = one clearly defined outcome, such as editing a workflow, fixing a form, adjusting a pipeline, or updating a calendar.
- Turnaround is measured in business days (Monday-Friday) from the time a request becomes active. The next request in your queue starts when the current one is delivered.
- New system builds, migrations, and large multi-part projects (e.g., IVR or Voice AI systems) are scoped separately under Custom Development.
- Usage-based services (calls, SMS, email, AI, domains) are billed separately to your sub-account wallet and are not included in support packages.
