A BROAD MARKET SIGNAL

The U.S. peptide market is growing

U.S. peptide therapeutics, retail side | 2024–2033 estimate

MARKET SIZE / USD BILLIONS

$134.6B

2026 ESTIMATE

$336.1B

2033 FORECAST

Source: Grand View Research, U.S. Peptide Therapeutics (Retail Side) Market.

Intermediate annual values were calculated from published endpoints; this is sector context, not an APDG sales forecast.

WHY THE GROWTH

01

Preventative care

People are taking control of their health earlier.

02

An aging population

More people living longer and healthier.

03

Longevity and performance

Demand for healthier, higher performing lives.

04

Therapeutic applications

New uses across metabolic, cardiovascular, neurological and other areas.

05

Awareness and acceptance

Peptides are becoming mainstream.

A DISCIPLINED MODEL

Compliance starts with the right pathway

Product sourcing, intended use and distribution model matter.

APDG organizes the opportunity around clearly defined product pathways.

Business model and supply chain matter.
The regulatory pathway matters.

Where the industry gets exposed:

- 01 Imported or misbranded product
Unapproved or misbranded peptides from overseas sources.
- 02 Commercial possession or storage
Unapproved products held for commercial purposes.
- 03 Labeling and product claims
Mislabeling, repackaging or false claims.
- 04 Manufacturing and testing records
Undocumented or misleading quality claims.

Research use, outsourcing and patient-specific fulfillment require distinct product and provider qualifications.

The business model, supply chain and regulatory pathway all matter.

FEDERAL CASE STUDIES

The right pathway matters

Three public DOJ cases illustrate sourcing, labeling and channel risk.

SENTENCED / JULY 2026

Paradigm Peptides

Matthew Kawa

70 months

IN FEDERAL PRISON

DOJ said the business illegally imported products from China and India and sold to more than 54,000 customers, generating about $5 million in proceeds.

DOJ / Northern District of Indiana

SENTENCED / JULY 2026

Brandon Piper

21 months

IN FEDERAL PRISON

He pled guilty in a scheme involving unapproved, misbranded prescription drugs, including peptides, imported from China for distribution in the United States.

DOJ / Western District of Michigan

INDICTED / APRIL 2026

Justin Watkins

Utah physician

Allegations

NOT A CONVICTION

DOJ alleges receipt and sale of misbranded, non-FDA-approved peptides from China and relabeling for distribution to more than 200 patients.

DOJ / District of Utah

These cases reinforce the importance of proper sourcing, transparent practices and the appropriate regulatory pathway.
