SINGLE-STOREY FACADE SERIES

The Vangel Collection

Four character options for the Vangel single-storey home.

A wide, sheltered porch and a generous double garage give the Vangel its quiet confidence on the street — a single-storey home that feels both approachable and considered. Four character options below let you tune the personality of the home to its setting: a softly textured stone reading, a sharp modern contrast, a clean all-white statement, or a warm sun-dipped palette. Same architecture, four very different first impressions — choose the one that fits the block, the buyer or the tenant you have in mind.

Vangel — Travertine

STONE · SOFT · APPROACHABLE

A creamy travertine-inspired render pairs with a warm timber garage and entry door, brushed silver sconces and a charcoal tiled roof. Reads as polished but unfussy — a palette that ages gracefully and suits almost any street.

Vangel — Modern

SHARP · CONFIDENT · ARCHITECTURAL

Warm taupe render walls meet a deep charcoal entry, charcoal flush-panel garage and matte black openings. A confident, design-led pairing that lifts kerb appeal and signals a well-considered build to the street.

Vangel — Blanc

CRISP · COASTAL · STATEMENT

Render walls in luminous white framed by a matte black roof, garage, front door and window frames. A clean, gallery-like presence on the street — instantly photogenic and unmistakably premium.

Vangel — Autumn

SANDSTONE · SUN-DIPPED · MEDITERRANEAN

Soft sandstone walls warm into a deeper caramel entry, set against a rich brown roof, timber door and bronze sconces. An inviting, sun-dipped reading that brings instant character to leafier streets.

INVESTMENT CONSIDERATIONS

Growth Drivers

- Exceptional Population Growth: 98.3% growth 2016–2021, among highest in regional Victoria
- Infrastructure Investment: Significant public and private investment in roads, drainage, and community facilities
- Affordable Entry Point: Median house prices $160,000–$170,000 below Melbourne metro
- Strong Employment Base: Diverse economy with healthcare, agriculture, and manufacturing
- Regional Migration: Continued trend of tree-change and lifestyle seekers
- Interest Rate Environment: February 2025 RBA rate cut (4.35% to 4.1%) improving affordability

Risk Factors

- Building Approvals: High ratio (6.37%) may indicate future oversupply
- Limited Sales Data: Only 34–36 house sales annually (smaller sample size)
- Economic Dependence: Regional economy tied to agriculture and commodity prices
- Distance from Melbourne: 181km limits daily commuting options

Opportunities

- Strong Rental Market: Yields of 4.3%–5.0%, vacancy rate only 1.0%
- Family Market: Growing young families seeking affordable housing
- Land Banking: Development sites in growth corridors
- Commercial Development: SNAC structure plan unlocking retail/commercial opportunities
- Infrastructure Beneficiary: Property values supported by public investment

CONCLUSION

Shepparton North VIC 3631 represents a rapidly transforming locality within the Greater Shepparton region. With exceptional population growth of 98.3% between 2016–2021, significant infrastructure investment, and strategic planning frameworks in place, the area is positioned for continued expansion.

The suburb appeals primarily to young families seeking affordable housing in a semi-rural setting with good access to regional employment, education, and health services. The median house price of approximately $630,000 offers a substantial discount compared to metropolitan Melbourne while providing attractive rental yields of 4.3%–5.0%.

Key strengths include strong demographic fundamentals, tight rental market conditions (1.0% vacancy), substantial homeownership rates (77.6%), and comprehensive strategic planning through the Shepparton North Activity Centre Structure Plan and broader regional growth plans.

Potential investors and residents should be mindful of the high building approvals ratio and relatively limited transaction volumes. However, the substantial public infrastructure investment, diverse regional economy, and established growth trajectory suggest Shepparton North is well-positioned to continue attracting population growth and delivering moderate capital appreciation alongside solid rental returns.

For families, lifestyle seekers, and investors prioritizing regional growth markets with strong rental fundamentals, Shepparton North offers a compelling proposition supported by sound demographic trends and strategic planning frameworks.
