From live television to global stages.

Award-winning live presenter and trained broadcast journalist with more than two decades connecting audiences on screen, on stage and in the room.

Live television

Two years co-anchoring a daily breakfast programme in Manchester, building the quick thinking, adaptability and audience connection that still define her live work.

BBC entertainment

Six series as the online presenter for BBC Strictly Come Dancing, plus two years as a resident Gadget Girl on BBC Two's Something for the Weekend.

An Evening with Gary Neville

The conversations behind the headlines.

Every room is different. The right host knows what it needs.

Live broadcasts • Fireside chats • Product launches • Awards • Panel moderation

Pace, warmth, judgement and the instinct to make people feel safe, heard and worth listening to.

Trusted when it matters most.

“Nikki’s ability to read the room, make everyone feel comfortable, and ask the right questions is second to none.”

Nora Ryan

Digital Executive Producer, Strictly Come Dancing

“Nikki understands and thrives in live TV. She has unstoppable energy and is a pleasure to work with.”

Hugh Lawton

BBC Commissioning Editor

“A dream to work with. Every client we worked together with walked away with an amazing event that hit objectives and smashed engagement.”

Mia Butler

Event Booker & Agent

“She is unflappable. I wholeheartedly recommend Nikki for any event where you want your attendees to feel engaged and celebrated.”

Carolee Summer-Sparks

National Partnerships Director

Safe hands. Big energy. Real connection.

Communication performance for people who need to be heard.

The same live instinct Nikki brings to global stages now underpins a growing coaching practice for teams and individuals facing moments that matter.

For teams

The Bloody Brilliant Speaker®

Communication training for organisations that want people to speak up, present clearly and communicate with confidence - in meetings, with clients, on camera and on stage.

For individuals

High-stakes visibility

Private work with leaders, founders, athletes and high performers navigating media exposure, major presentations, public scrutiny and a bigger platform.

20+ years live becomes practical performance coaching.

Calm under pressure. Clear thinking. Authentic delivery. The confidence to sound like yourself when the stakes rise.

Two distinct routes: team development through The Bloody Brilliant Speaker® and selective private coaching through Origin.

Private communication performance

For people whose visibility is changing.

Selective one-to-one work for athletes, leaders, founders and public figures navigating a bigger platform, greater scrutiny and moments where how they communicate really matters.

Media • interviews • high-stakes appearances • public scrutiny • personal story

Selective. Personal. By application.

Identity first. Story-led. Built for pressure - so the person people meet is the same person you have always been.

Not generic media training. Not a performance persona.

Built from 20+ years of live communication.

The Bloody Brilliant Speaker®

The Bloody Brilliant Speaker® framework turns the instincts developed across live television, global events and thousands of interviews into a practical communication system.

Just Bloody Speak

A published extension of the same philosophy:
less performance, less overthinking and more
trust in your own voice.

Presenter. Coach. Author.

One career built around what happens when people have something important to say - and need to say it well.
