COMMERCIAL CLEANING CONSUMABLES COST GUIDE

5 ways to reduce costs, minimise waste and get better value.

01

KNOW YOUR COSTS
Understand what you're buying, how much you're paying.

02

REVIEW SUPPLY CHAIN
The right supplier can reduce costs, with local sourcing helping deliver better value.

03

UNDERSTAND USAGE
Base ordering on actual occupancy and usage, not historic quantities.

04

REDUCE WASTE
Over-ordering can quickly increase costs. Better management helps reduce waste and spend.

05

LOOK BEYOND PRICE
Consider price, performance, usage and waste together when choosing products.

COULD YOU BE OVERPAYING BY UP TO 30% FOR EVERYDAY CLEANING CONSUMABLES?

Soap, hand towels and toilet tissue may seem like small costs, but across busy workplaces and multiple sites, they quickly add up. We're seeing businesses pay up to 30% more for everyday consumables than the prices available through our local supply chain.

A SMARTER APPROACH TO CONSUMABLES

Managing workplace consumables isn't simply about finding the cheapest products. It's about looking at the whole picture – from where products are sourced and what they cost, to how they are used, ordered and wasted.

A lower unit price doesn't always mean lower overall costs. Choosing products based on price, performance and actual usage can help reduce unnecessary spend, minimise waste and deliver better value.

THE TGC APPROACH

Smarter sourcing. Better value.

LOCAL SOURCING
Competitive pricing through a local supply chain.

SMARTER ORDERING
Stock based on actual usage and requirements.

PRODUCT SELECTION
Choosing products for performance, not price alone.

WASTE REDUCTION
Helping minimise unnecessary consumption and over-ordering.

EFFICIENT SUPPLY
Less waste, better resource use and improved overall value.

At Tidy Green Clean, we use a local supply chain to help keep costs competitive while considering the specific requirements of each workplace. By understanding usage, managing stock effectively and selecting products based on performance as well as price, we can help clients reduce unnecessary spend without compromising standards.

It can also support a more sustainable operation. Using only what is needed means less unnecessary consumption, less waste and more efficient use of resources.

COULD YOU BE PAYING MORE THAN YOU NEED TO?

If you haven't reviewed your consumable costs recently, now could be a good time to take a closer look.

TGC can review your current products, pricing, supply arrangements and usage to identify potential savings and opportunities to reduce waste.
