Coach Jedi Jason (Jason Oswald)

Author of The FIREBall Method | Financial Freedom Coach | Speaker | Long Bio

Jason Oswald, known to his community as Coach Jedi Jason, has been an entrepreneur since the age of eight. He spent years inside the credit and collections world, rising to manager at a collection agency, the guy making the calls, and learned exactly how the machine works from the inside.

Then life flipped the table on him. His mother was diagnosed with cancer, and his family made the only choice that mattered: being there for her. To carry them through, they leaned on savings and credit. When she passed and the dust settled, Jason found himself buried under more than $78,000 in debt, now getting the same kind of collection calls he used to make for a living.

But he knew something most people don't. Using what he'd learned from the inside, he settled that debt for pennies on the dollar and cleared it himself. In 2000, he walked away from the dark side of the collection industry, and debt, for good.

Since then, Jason has helped thousands of people eliminate their debts for a fraction of what they owed, saving them millions. As a business coach, he has helped countless others launch businesses, ignite and multiply their income, and transform their financial futures.

Everything he learned became The FIREBall Method, a step-by-step path that takes people from financially frozen to financially free by helping them rediscover their dream, ignite and multiply their income, break the beliefs that kept them stuck, and build a life and legacy that lasts. Today, Jason has committed his life to helping people find the fire inside them and finally be freed by fire.
