

5 Essential Questions to Ask About Medicare

A Comprehensive Guide to Navigating Coverage and Costs

Medicare is a cornerstone of healthcare for retirees, yet its complexity can make it difficult to navigate. As healthcare needs and costs continue to evolve, having a thorough understanding of how Medicare works is crucial, particularly for those approaching retirement. This guide delves into five key questions about Medicare, providing detailed explanations and actionable tips to help you make well-informed decisions.

1. What Does Medicare Cover?

Answer: Medicare is a federal health insurance program designed to help individuals aged 65 and older, as well as certain younger individuals with disabilities, manage their healthcare costs. However, Medicare does not cover all medical expenses, making it important to understand what is and isn't included under its various parts.ⁱ

Explanation:

Part A

(Hospital Insurance):

- Covers inpatient care in hospitals, which includes semi-private rooms, meals, general nursing, and drugs as part of your inpatient treatment.
- Also covers care in a skilled nursing facility (following a hospital stay), hospice care, and limited home health care.
- Most individuals do not pay a premium for Part A if they or their spouse paid Medicare taxes during their working years.ⁱⁱⁱ

Part B

(Medical Insurance):

- Covers outpatient care, such as doctor visits, lab tests, surgeries, and some preventive services.
- Also covers durable medical equipment like wheelchairs, walkers, and hospital beds.^{iv}
- Part B has an annual deductible, after which you typically pay 20% of the Medicare-approved amount for most services.

Part C

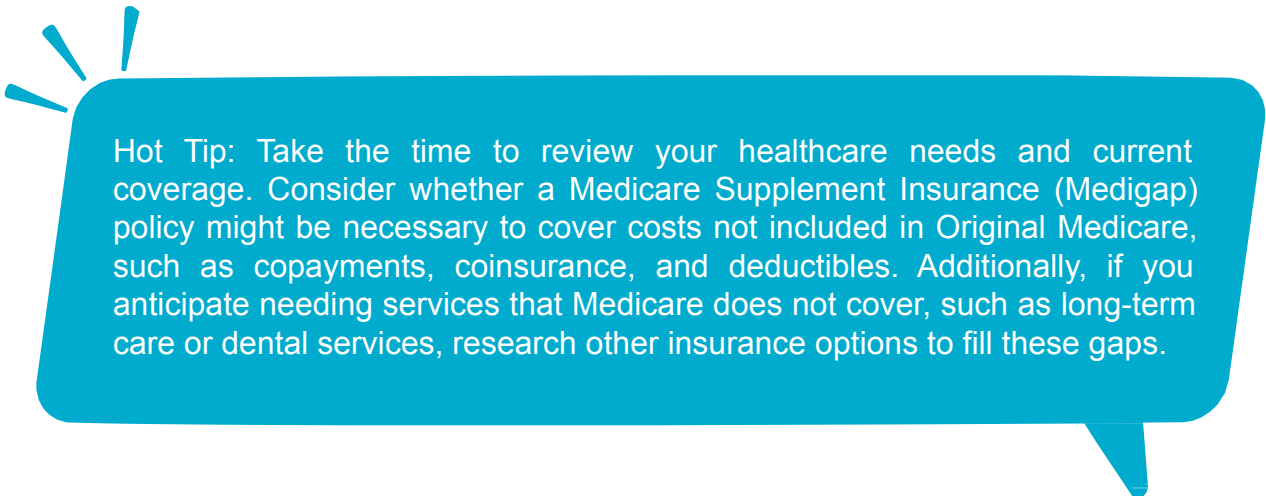

(Medicare Advantage):

- Medicare Advantage plans are offered by private insurance companies approved by Medicare. These plans provide all of Part A and Part B benefits, and many include additional services like vision, hearing, dental, and prescription drug coverage.ⁱⁱ
- Each Medicare Advantage plan has different out-of-pocket costs and rules for how you get services, such as needing referrals to see specialists.

Part D

(Prescription Drug Coverage):

- Helps cover the cost of prescription drugs, including many recommended shots or vaccines.
- Each plan has a formulary, which is a list of covered drugs. Plans may place drugs into different “tiers” on their formularies, which can affect how much you pay.^v

Hot Tip: Take the time to review your healthcare needs and current coverage. Consider whether a Medicare Supplement Insurance (Medigap) policy might be necessary to cover costs not included in Original Medicare, such as copayments, coinsurance, and deductibles. Additionally, if you anticipate needing services that Medicare does not cover, such as long-term care or dental services, research other insurance options to fill these gaps.

2. How Much Will I Pay in Medicare Premiums?

Answer: Medicare premiums vary depending on the specific parts of Medicare you enroll in, your income level, and your choice of additional coverage options. Planning for these expenses is essential to managing your healthcare costs during retirement.

Explanation:

Part A:^{vii}

- Most people qualify for premium-free Part A. However, if you haven't worked (or if your spouse hasn't worked) and paid Medicare taxes for at least 10 years, you may need to pay a monthly premium.
- If you need to pay for Part A, the monthly premium can be as high as $565 monthly in 2026, depending on how long you or your spouse worked and paid Medicare taxes.^{viii}

Part B:

- The standard monthly premium for Part B in 2026 is $202.90. However, if your income exceeds certain thresholds, you may pay more, due to the Income-Related Monthly Adjustment Amount (IRMAA).
- There is also an annual deductible for Part B, which is $283 in 2026.^{viii}

Part C and Part D:

- Premiums for Medicare Advantage (Part C) vary widely by plan and provider - some have low or $0 premiums but different cost-sharing.
- Prescription drug plan (Part D) premiums also vary; the national average is roughly $14-$40+ per month in 2026, and higher-income beneficiaries may pay more due to IRMAA. In addition to the plan premium, you may have deductibles, copayments, and coinsurance.^{ix}

Hot Tip: Use the Medicare Plan Finder tool on the Medicare website to estimate your future costs. This tool allows you to compare Medicare Advantage (Part C) and Prescription Drug (Part D) plans based on your healthcare needs and current medications. Understanding these costs in advance can help you budget effectively and avoid unexpected expenses.^{xiii}

3. Do I Have to Enroll in Medicare if I Am Still Working?

Answer: If you are still working and covered by an employer’s health insurance plan, you may not need to enroll in Medicare right away. However, understanding the rules regarding Medicare enrollment is crucial to avoid penalties and ensure that you do not have a gap in coverage.^{vi}

Explanation:

Employer Coverage with 20+ Employees:

- If you are covered by an employer-sponsored health plan from a company with 20 or more employees, you can delay enrolling in Part B without penalty, as long as your employer’s insurance is considered “creditable” coverage by Medicare standards.
- Creditable coverage means that your employer’s plan is expected to pay at least as much as Medicare’s standard Part D prescription drug coverage.

Employer Coverage with <20 Employees:

- If your employer has fewer than 20 employees, Medicare generally becomes your primary insurance when you turn 65, and your employer coverage becomes secondary. In this case, it may be beneficial to consider enrolling in Medicare Part A and Part B to avoid gaps in your healthcare coverage.

Supplementing Employer Coverage:

- You can choose to enroll in Medicare even if you’re still working, especially if you want to supplement your employer’s health insurance. This may be beneficial if your employer plan has high out-of-pocket costs or limited coverage.

Hot Tip: Speak with your HR department to confirm whether your employer’s health insurance plan is considered “creditable coverage” under Medicare rules. This information can help you decide whether to enroll in Medicare or delay it without risking penalties. Additionally, request a written notice of creditable coverage from your employer each year, which you may need to provide to Medicare to avoid late enrollment penalties.

4. Is Medicare Enrollment Automatic?

Answer: Medicare enrollment is automatic for some individuals, but others will need to take steps to enroll manually. Missing the appropriate enrollment window can result in higher premiums and potential gaps in coverage.^x

Explanation:

Automatic Enrollment:

- You are automatically enrolled in Medicare Part A and Part B if you are already receiving Social Security or Railroad Retirement Board benefits when you turn 65. You'll receive your Medicare card in the mail three months before your 65th birthday.
- If you don't want Part B coverage, you can opt-out by following the instructions that come with your Medicare card. However, consider the consequences carefully, as re-enrolling later could result in penalties.

Manual Enrollment:

- If you are not receiving Social Security benefits when you turn 65, you will need to manually enroll in Medicare during your Initial Enrollment Period (IEP). The IEP is a seven-month window that starts three months before your 65th birthday, includes your birthday month, and ends three months after your birthday.
- If you miss your IEP, you can enroll during the General Enrollment Period (GEP) from January 1 to March 31 each year, but you may face a late enrollment penalty.^x

Special Enrollment Periods (SEP):

- If you had health insurance through your or your spouse's current employer, you may qualify for a Special Enrollment Period (SEP). The SEP lasts for eight months after your employment or employer-provided health insurance ends, during which you can enroll in Medicare without a penalty.

Hot Tip: Mark your calendar for the start of your Initial Enrollment Period (IEP) and make sure you enroll in Medicare within this window if you are not automatically enrolled. If you qualify for a Special Enrollment Period, gather all necessary documentation, including proof of creditable coverage, to ensure a smooth enrollment process.

5. Can I Contribute to an Employer-Sponsored Health Savings Account if I'm on Medicare?

Answer: Once you enroll in any part of Medicare, you are no longer eligible to contribute to a Health Savings Account (HSA). However, you can continue to use the funds already in your HSA to pay for qualified medical expenses, including some costs associated with Medicare.

Explanation:

HSA Contributions:^{xi}

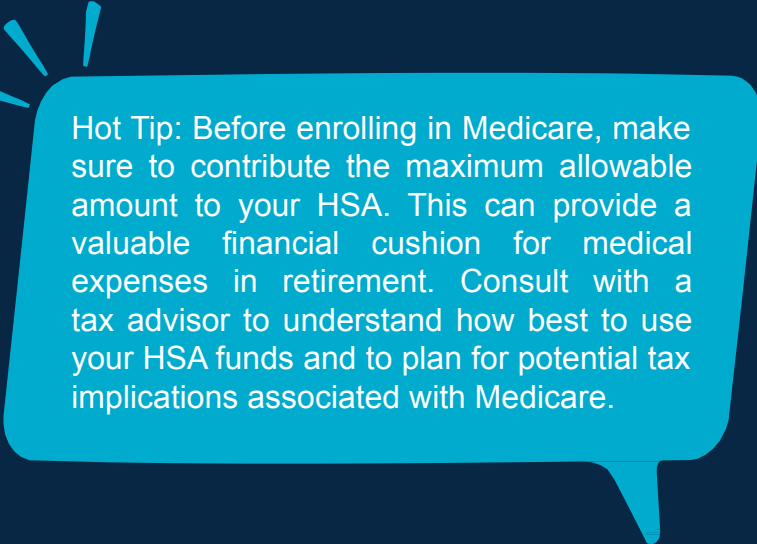

- HSA contributions must stop once you enroll in Medicare, as Medicare beneficiaries are not eligible to contribute to an HSA. This applies whether you enroll in Part A, Part B, or any other part of Medicare.
- If you're eligible for Medicare but delay enrollment to continue contributing to your HSA, make sure your employer health plan remains creditable.

Using HSA Funds:

- Even though you can no longer contribute to your HSA after enrolling in Medicare, you can still use your existing HSA funds to pay for qualified medical expenses. This includes Medicare premiums, deductibles, copayments, and coinsurance.^{xii}
- Additionally, HSA funds can be used tax-free for healthcare expenses for your spouse or dependents, even if they are not enrolled in Medicare.

Planning Contributions:

- If you plan to enroll in Medicare at 65, consider maximizing your HSA contributions in the years leading up to your enrollment. The IRS sets annual limits for HSA contributions, and individuals aged 55 and older can make an additional "catch-up" contribution.

Hot Tip: Before enrolling in Medicare, make sure to contribute the maximum allowable amount to your HSA. This can provide a valuable financial cushion for medical expenses in retirement. Consult with a tax advisor to understand how best to use your HSA funds and to plan for potential tax implications associated with Medicare.

How We Can Assist

Navigating the complexities of Medicare requires careful planning and consideration. Whether you need assistance understanding coverage options, comparing plans, or budgeting for future healthcare costs, our team is here to help. Contact us today to discuss your Medicare needs and explore potential strategies for your retirement healthcare.

cashfinancialllc.com
(540) 241-0659
53 Three C Lane
Fishersville, VA 22939

Investment Advisory Services offered through Alphastar Capital Management, LLC, an SEC registered Investment Adviser. SEC registration does not constitute an endorsement of the firm by the Commission, nor does it indicate that the adviser has attained a particular level of skill or ability. Cash Financial, LLC and Alphastar Capital Management, LLC are separate and independent entities.

Sources :

- i. <https://www.ssa.gov/pubs/EN 05-10043.pdf>
- ii. <https://medicare.com/medicare-advantage part c/medicare part c/>
- iii. <https://www.medicare.gov/what medicaid covers/what part-a covers>
- iv. <https://www.medicare.gov/what medicaid covers/what-part-b covers>
- v. <https://www.medicare.gov/drug-coverage part d/what medicaid part d drug-plans cover>
- vi. <https://www.aarp.org/health/medicare-insurance/info 03-2011/ask ms medicaid question-94.html>
- vii. <https://www.cms.gov/medicare/enrollment renewal/original part-a-b>
- viii. <https://www.medicare.gov/publications/11579-medicaid are-costs.pdf>
- ix. <https://www.cms.gov/newsroom/fact-sheets/2026-medicaid e-parts-b-premiums-deductibles>
- x. <https://www.medicare.gov/basics/costs/medicaid costs/avoid penalties>
- xi. <https://www.medicareinteractive.org/get-answers/types of medicaid-advantage plans-hmos ppos-and more/health savings-accounts-hsas-and medicaid>
- xii. <https://offices.depaul.edu/human resources/benefits/Documents/HSA medicaid-faqs.pdf>
- xiii. <https://www.medicare.gov/plan compare/x>