Universal Knockdown Safe A-Frame System

Upgrade Any Existing Warehouse or Mobile A-Frame with RockLock™ Safety Technology

The Universal Knockdown SAFE A-Frame System is a modular slab-handling solution engineered to reduce slab instability, uncontrolled movement, and tip-over risk during stone slab transport and storage when used in accordance with established safety procedures.

The system uses heavy-duty steel A-frames, adjustable RockLock™ locking arms, and telescoping connection tubes to accommodate a wide range of slab sizes while maintaining controlled slab positioning across multiple applications.

Important: This system is not strapless. Conventional straps or approved tie-downs are required for transport applications.

Important Product Line Distinction

Unlike the Truck SAFE A-Frame, this system is not strapless.

The RockLock™ Strapless Safety System is exclusively available on the SSH TAF-SL 30 Truck A-Frame, where strapless functionality is engineered into both the RockLock™ locking arm system and the integrated collision bar assembly. Working together, these components provide controlled slab retention during transport without reliance on external straps.

At this stage, no other Safe Stone Handling A-Frame incorporates RockLock™ strapless technology.
