

EQUIPPING WARRIORS IN HARM'S WAY

Inert M112 Blocks

The EOD Gear Inert M112 C4 Block is a realistic training aid designed for explosive ordnance disposal (EOD) technicians, military demolition instructors, and bomb squad training programs.

The block replicates the size, shape, and general handling characteristics of a standard M112 demolition charge, allowing operators to safely practice explosive handling procedures during training exercises.

This inert training block enables instructors and students to conduct Basic Demolition Training, including charge placement, capping procedures, and explosive handling drills without the hazards associated with energetic materials. The inert design contains no explosive material while maintaining the external form factor necessary for realistic training scenarios.

All inert M112 blocks are manufactured by EOD Gear under an ISO 9001:2015–certified Quality Management System to ensure consistent dimensions and repeatable training use. The Inert M112 C4 Block is available for procurement through the EOD Gear GSA Schedule.

Training blocks are suitable for military demolition instruction, EOD schoolhouse programs, and explosive hazard recognition training. Bulk quantities and custom training configurations are available upon request.
