The Awards Pod

A community for small business owners and solopreneurs who want to embrace awards as a tool for growing their business. The pod will provide 6 months of strategic awards mentorship.

It's time to approach awards with conviction!

This is for you if:

- You are ready to use awards to boost credibility and visibility
- You want ongoing accountability and guidance
- You don't know which are the right awards for you and your business
- You hesitate to nominate yourself for awards, or put them off completely
- You lose momentum when writing award entries and sometimes miss deadlines
- You find the awards process overwhelming
- You get FOMO when you see other people's award posts
- You know that you are not using your awards entries to their full visibility potential
- You know the impact of your business and its time to celebrate it
- You've used up all the excuses not to enter awards!

“Emma has been absolutely incredible in guiding me through the award entry process. Her expertise, attention to detail, and knack for knowing exactly how to present my achievements have been invaluable. She not only provided excellent advice but took the time to understand my business and my journey, ensuring every entry truly reflected my story and hard work. Her ability to simplify what initially felt like an overwhelming process is unmatched. Emma has a way of inspiring confidence and helping you see your own value, which is such a rare and special gift. Thanks to her, I’ve not only submitted strong award entries but also learned so much about positioning my business for success. She goes above and beyond, offering tailored advice, constructive feedback, and plenty of encouragement. Her unwavering support and positivity have made such a difference to me, and I know I couldn’t have done it without her. Emma truly is a powerhouse of knowledge and support, and I’d recommend her to anyone looking to take their awards journey to the next level!”
