Dr Jon Bailey is a Consultant in Emergency and Intensive Care Medicine at Oxford University Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust, with subspecialty expertise in paediatric emergency medicine and prehospital emergency medicine. He also serves as a HEMS doctor with Thames Valley Air Ambulance.

His clinical work includes the management of critically ill and injured patients across emergency departments, intensive care units and prehospital settings. This provides extensive experience in acute trauma, medical emergencies, resuscitation, critical care decision-making and multidisciplinary emergency response.

Dr Bailey holds multiple postgraduate qualifications across emergency medicine, intensive care, medical leadership and clinical research. He also holds a Diploma in Legal Medicine (2024), supporting his understanding of medico-legal frameworks and clinical standards relevant to expert reporting. He is clinical governance lead for Oxford University Hospitals Emergency Departments.
