Cookie Policy

How Thrive Developmental Services, LLC uses cookies and similar technologies on its websites and online services.

LAST UPDATED

1. Overview

This Cookie Policy explains how Thrive Developmental Services, LLC ("Thrive," "we," "us," or "our") uses cookies and similar technologies when you visit our websites, landing pages, forms, or other online services that link to this policy.

This policy should be read together with our Privacy Policy. By using our services, you acknowledge the practices described here. Where required by law, we will request your consent before placing non-essential cookies.

2. What are cookies?

Cookies are small text files placed on your device when you visit a website. They help websites function, remember preferences, understand how visitors use pages, and support communications or advertising. Similar technologies may include pixels, tags, local storage, and software development kits.

Cookies may be session cookies, which generally expire when you close your browser, or persistent cookies, which remain until they expire or you delete them. Cookies may also be placed by Thrive or by third-party service providers.

3. How we classify cookies

The cookies available on a particular page can vary depending on the features, forms, analytics tools, and integrations in use. We group them into the categories below.

Essential cookies Always active	These cookies are required for core site functions, security, fraud prevention, accessibility, network management, and recording privacy choices. Disabling them through browser settings may prevent parts of the site from working.
Functional cookies Preference-based	These cookies remember choices such as language, region, form progress, or other settings so the site can provide a more personalized experience.
Analytics cookies Consent where required	These cookies help us understand visits, traffic sources, page performance, and interactions. We may use tools such as Google Analytics or comparable services when enabled on a page.
Marketing cookies Consent where required	These cookies and pixels may help measure campaigns, limit repeated messages, or support relevant advertising across websites and services. They may be set by advertising or social media partners when those integrations are used.

4. Third-party providers

Some cookies may be placed or accessed by vendors that provide hosting, forms, analytics, customer communications, scheduling, embedded media, advertising, or other features. Those providers may process information under their own privacy notices. The specific providers can change as our services evolve.

5. Your cookie choices

Where a cookie consent tool is available, you can use it to accept, reject, or adjust non-essential cookie categories. Essential cookies cannot generally be disabled through the consent tool because they are necessary to operate the service.

You can also use your browser settings to block or delete cookies. Blocking cookies may affect site features, saved preferences, forms, or embedded content. Your choices generally apply to the browser and device on which they are made, so you may need to update them on other devices or after clearing browser data.

Some browsers or extensions offer additional privacy controls. Because industry standards continue to develop, our response to browser-based signals may vary by jurisdiction and available technology.

6. Changes to this policy

We may update this Cookie Policy to reflect changes in technology, law, our vendors, or our business practices. The updated date at the top indicates when the policy was last revised. Material changes may be communicated through the website or another appropriate method.
