

WORLD SPEAKS

Open Doors

Open Doors was created to support immigrants, refugees, and people learning English in navigating housing-related challenges.

Open Doors provides free interpretation and translation services to ensure language is never a barrier to stable housing, essential resources, and community engagement.

World Speaks is not an affordable housing or legal agency. We cannot provide any legal assistance or give legal advice. We do not have affordable housing resources or properties available.*

Trainings

Our trainings foster deeper understanding of language and culture through comprehensive language access and language justice training, development of language access plans, and implementation of multilingual practices. We aim to bridge communication gaps—whether between students and teachers, parents and educators, or businesses and their clients or volunteers.

These barriers often arise from cultural and linguistic differences, and we are committed to breaking them down through intentional, equity-centered approaches.

Tailored to each client's unique needs, we offer practical tools to help align language practices with their broader mission, values, and commitment to inclusion.
