Baby Signing Teacher Training Programme

This engaging and practical course enables professionals to deliver a 6-week baby signing course to parents. The classes are designed to be fun and interactive, using singing, play, and sign language to support early communication. Babies quickly learn to sign back to their parents, helping to reduce frustration and build confidence and self-esteem in both parent and child. The training offers a professional training programme that equips practitioners to teach baby signing to parents.

Programme Overview

This two-day training course is practical and hands-on, supported by essential theoretical knowledge to ensure students teach both professionally and ethically.

You'll learn how to deliver songs, signs, and movement in a fun and engaging way for parents and babies. All teaching materials are provided, including songs, music tracks via Spotify, lesson plans, and handbooks.

(Note: Students should bring an enthusiastic attitude toward singing and a small selection of low-cost musical instruments to support their sessions.)

What You Will Learn

The programme covers both theoretical and practical content, including:

- The history and cultural context of baby signing and Sign Language
- A structured 6-week course for teaching parents, based on British Sign Language
- Strategies for delivering both group and one-to-one sessions
- An understanding of speech and language development
- The benefits of baby signing for early communication and bonding
- How signing supports child development and parent/carer-infant interaction
- Recognising infant behavioural cues and early communication
- Supporting and empowering parents
- Professionalism, health and safety, and ethical practice
- Marketing your baby signing classes
