The Traditional Financial Industry is Flawed

Despite its importance to the global economy, the traditional financial industry has been slow to embrace innovation, limiting its ability to adapt to changing economic, social, and environmental conditions.

1

The traditional financial industry is outdated and inefficient, leaving people around the world unable to access basic financial services

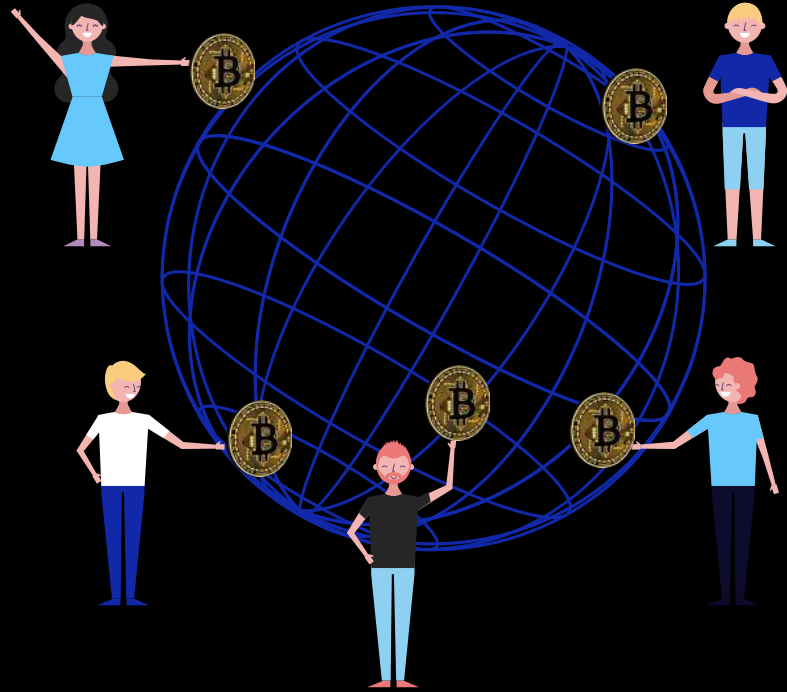

2

Cryptocurrency offers a new way to transact and store value, but it's still difficult for the average person to use

3

A lack of transparency has long been a problem in the traditional financial industry, leading to widespread distrust and a lack of consumer confidence

Sources of Revenue

Marketing and Sales Plan

01

Lead generation:

This involves identifying potential customers who have shown some interest in our products or services. This can be done through various channels, such as social media, email campaigns, and website forms.

03

Sales pitch:

If a lead is qualified, the next step is to pitch our products or services to them. This can be done through product demos, presentations, or proposals.

05

Closing the deal:

If the negotiation is successful, the next step is to close the deal and sign a contract.

02

Lead qualification:

Once we have generated leads, the next step is to qualify them based on their level of interest and whether they meet our target customer profile. This is usually done through phone or email conversations.

04

Negotiation:

Once a lead has shown interest in our offerings, we may need to negotiate on pricing or other terms to reach a mutually beneficial agreement.

06

Post-sales support:

After the sale is closed, we provide ongoing support to ensure the customer is satisfied and to address any issues or questions they may have. This can include onboarding, training, and customer service.
