Privacy Policy

The Networker's Tour Guide
Effective date: October 13, 2026

The Networker's Tour Guide respects your privacy. This policy explains how we collect, use, and share information when you register for our events, purchase our services or products, or communicate with us through our registration and checkout pages.

Information We Collect

We collect information you provide, including:

- Your name and email address.
- Registration details and information about your purchases.
- Business information or other details you voluntarily share.
- Messages, questions, and feedback you send us.

When you make a purchase, our payment provider processes your payment information. We receive transaction information needed to manage your purchase.

Our website and service providers may also collect technical information, such as your IP address, browser type, and activity on our pages.

How We Use Your Information

We use your information to:

- Process registrations and purchases.
- Send confirmations, receipts, event reminders, Zoom links, and schedule updates.
- Deliver services, products, and resources you requested.
- Respond to questions and provide customer support.
- Maintain business records and improve our services.

When you subscribe to marketing emails, we also use your email address to send networking tips, newsletters, and information about upcoming offers and events.

Email Communications

When you register for an event or purchase a product or service, we use your email address to send communications needed to fulfill that registration or purchase.

Marketing emails are separate from these service-related communications. You can unsubscribe from marketing emails using the unsubscribe link included in those messages. Unsubscribing from marketing does not prevent us from sending necessary communications about an existing registration or purchase.

This registration process does not enroll you in text-message communications.

How We Share Information

We share information with service providers as needed to operate our business and deliver your purchase. These include HighLevel for registration and customer management, our payment processor, email delivery providers, and Zoom for virtual sessions.

We may also disclose information when required by law or when reasonably necessary to address fraud, protect our rights, or protect the safety of others.

We do not sell your personal information or share your contact information with other businesses for their own marketing purposes.

Cookies and Email Tracking

Our registration and checkout pages may use cookies or similar technologies to support forms, payments, and website functionality.

We use HighLevel's email reporting tools to see whether emails are opened and which links are clicked. This information helps us understand which resources and topics interest our audience and improve our communications. These reports do not always accurately reflect an individual's activity because email privacy settings and automated systems can affect the results.

You can manage cookies through your browser settings. Disabling some cookies may affect how our pages function. You can also unsubscribe from marketing emails using the unsubscribe link in those messages.

Information Retention and Security

We retain information for as long as reasonably needed to deliver services, maintain business records, resolve disputes, and meet legal obligations.

We use reasonable safeguards to protect personal information. No method of online transmission or electronic storage is completely secure.

Your Choices and Requests

You may contact us to request access to, correction of, or deletion of your personal information. We will review your request and respond as required by applicable law. Some information may need to be retained for legal, accounting, or transaction-related purposes.

To make a request, email faithann@thenetworkerstourguide.com.

Changes to This Policy

We may update this policy as our services or practices change. The current version will be posted on this page with an updated effective date.
